AY-THE WATER

ENGLEWOOD.

People in Englewood will soon have the chance to go fishing without stirring from under their own roofs, unless the quality of the water furnished from the Hackensack River speedily improves. It has been growing muddier and fishier with the passing of the days, and if all the people who don't eat meat on Friday will only boil a few gallons of water, they will have all the advantages of boiled fish without any of the disadvantages of bones. As a matter of fact, there has been a tremendous "kick" in the last look over the state of the water, and Englewood housekeepers have dropped the discussion of philosophy and evolution for the moment to free their minds on the subject that vexes them most. The war is pretty thoroughly aroused on the grievance, and has resolved not to swallow the obnoxious water till a vigorous word and a speedy settlement with the water company, looking to a change, the Board of Health and the Legislature have been

The Englewood Chorus Club is planning for a busy winter, and the outlook is for a most successful one. Mr. Woodruff, of New-York City, who is well and favorably known to all the musical people of Englewood, will continue to train the club, and it is expected that the chorus will be increased by many excellent voices. The rehearsals will soon begin and will be held weekly in the Dwight School. Mrs. Samuel Foxworth and other officers will give a series of concerts for the usual number of concerts for the disadvantaged, and are planning to extend the

A portrait of William Walter Phelps will soon be placed in the Englishwood Club. Phelps, who was a member and one of his old friends and neighbors, was desired to leave an enduring remembrance of Mrs. Phelps has returned to Teaneck after living in England for the last 10 years. The death of old "Bob" Wagner, the steward of the Englishwood Club, has taken away one of the most efficient stewards. In fact, he never did anything very well, but everybody loved him just the same, and the rich and poor, high born and lowly, all enjoyed his company. He was a very good steward, and, after his battles were over he came Englishwood and developed into the most shiftest, members have started a little ice-cream and candy shop and have already failed down went into the candy business. They have insisted on giving the children two sticks of candy for every one they bought, and a fifteen-cent plate of cream for a cent. They did everything else in the same way, and that is the reason that every one has been speaking a word of this week about old "Bob".

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Kerr will give a dance at their house in Chestnut-st. on Friday evening, October 12.

NUTLEY.

Revival meetings will be held in the Methodist Episcopal Church next week.

izens of East Rutherford has been called for st Monday night to decide what is to be done the triangular plot of land near the Erie station which the Council is to purchase from H. B. oster. The intention had been to make it a ball park, with a handsome fountain in the centre, and subscription lists having that object in view are issued. Ex-Mayor J. P. Cooper, of Rutherford, who owns property near the triangle, however, has been asked to sell it for $100,000.
